

MAKE HAVILAND CHINA HERE

LIBRARY FUND CAMPAIGN IS UNDER WAY

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 29.—Mr. Ogden L. Mills has an excellent understanding of the fundamental principles of the American theory of government, and a facility for expressing the principles in which he believes. It was Mr. Mills who said, then the New Deal was still new, that "you cannot correct the anomaly of want in the midst of plenty by abolishing the plenty."

Every time Mr. Mills makes a speech he clarifies the issue. He does not deliver an oration, hurl invectives, or hand out promises of largesse to prospective voters.

In his Columbus speech Mr. Mills did an excellent job of answering those who say they are for Mr. Roosevelt because "at least he tried to do something."

The speaker said that no action would have been better than the actions of Mr. Roosevelt, but that the alternative was not inaction. He made it clear that doing something and doing it right would have been a far better policy than merely doing something.

Mr. Jack Dempsey, the prize-fighter and hand-shaker, will put on a far better campaign show than Mr. Ogden L. Mills, but it is to be doubted that he will utter any more profound economic truths.

PA NEW OBSERVES

While tearing down the old Hoyt homestead on North Jefferson street, where new buildings are to be erected, employees of the Panella Wrecking and Salvage Company, found a number of old letters dated as far back as August 31, 1859, written to Dr. J. W. Wallace. Stamps in those days were not cancelled by machine, but the cancelling was done by scratching across the face of the stamp with a pen. The letters were in a remarkable state of preservation.

Workers Start Drive To Raise Library Fund

Hundred Twenty-Five Solicitors In Move To Secure $30,000

FIRST MEETING HELD MONDAY

Advance Gifts Total Over $12,000, Report To Teams Reveals

Challenged to go out and win subscriptions in the New Castle Free Public Library's money-raising campaign, more than 125 inspired campaigners were soliciting citizens today in the hope of raising by Thursday noon the $30,000 needed for the immediate purchase and conversion of the old post office building on North street into a commodious and up-to-date library home.

Campaign Begins
The campaign got under way at a rousing instructional dinner which the workers attended in the Castleton last night.

General Chairman W. Walter Duff, President of the board of trustees, Campaign Director Harry Thayer and three civic leaders spoke during the send-off rally and pointed the course it is hoped the campaign will follow.

After the dinner, General Chairman Duff took charge. "When I accept this chairman job," Mr. Duff told his fellow campaigners, "I was fully satisfied that New Castle needs a new library and that the present opportunity should not be passed up. And so our job is to raise the $30,000—and I'm sure we will."

Confidence was in the air from the very start of the speaking until the close.

McCaslin Speaks
Mr. Duff told little of the audience time and soon introduced President McCaslin of the library board, and official sponsors of the present campaign, to explain more as to the facts behind the campaign.

Immediately upon being presented, Mr. McCaslin expressed the group's regret that Miss Alice M.

Worst September Snowstorm In History Experienced In Denver, Colo.

(International News Service)
DENVER, Sept. 29.—Seven deaths were attributed today to the worst September snowstorm in the history of eastern Colorado, which did an estimated $7,000,000 damage within the city of Denver alone.

The dead are C. H. Chidlaw, Varney air line pilot, and two passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Elkins of San Francisco, killed when their plane crashed in the storm 26 miles east of Walsenburg, Colo., and four Denver residents killed in traffic mishaps resulting from the storm.

Most of the damage in Denver was to trees. The heavy snow falling on branches bearing summer foliage broke them down.

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 29.—President Roosevelt took his campaign musket off the wall and headed out for the political wars in earnest today.

Tonight at Syracuse he will fire a major blast at his opponent designed to answer some of the issues that have been raised against him and clarify others.

When his special train, newly equipped with a public address system pulls out of Hyde Park shortly before noon today for Republican upstate New York, Mr. Roosevelt's campaign for re-election will have officially begun.

Series of Speeches Planned
Between now and election day in a series of speeches, for the most part to be delivered in the industrial centers east of the Mississippi, the president will defend and extol the accomplishment of his administration and strike out vigorously at what he considers false issues. His speech will be broadcast nationally from 9:00 to 9:30 p. m., E. S. T., and has been billed in advance as one of national import.

In many respects it was believed tonight's address would be in the

Flag Raising Ceremony At Court House

American Legion And Troop F Members Take Part In Event

PATRIOTIC SPEECHES FEATURE OF OCCASION

County Commissioners Complemented On Enterprise In Erecting Flagpole

As the American Legion Band played, "The Star Spangled Banner" a huge American flag gracefully unfurled while being run up a new steel flagpole on the court house grounds Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The crowd cheered, a detail from Troop F fired three volleys from their rifles and the crowd gazed skyward at the waving stars and stripes and the big gold ball that surmounts the flagstaff.

It was a fitting climax to a patriotic program prepared by Registration Clerk, Thomas Edmunds, in which the various speakers eulogized the flag and what it stands for under the constitution of the United States. Court was adjourned and all of the court house offices were closed in honor of the occasion. Several hundred people stood in a drizzling rain during the exercises.

Master Of Ceremonies
Ivor Davis was master of ceremonies. A small speaker's stand, adorned with flags, had been erected near the northwest entrance to the court house and immediately south of the flag pole. The program began when Davis called on Rev. J. C. McIlvaine to lead in prayer.

Davis then called attention to the fact that the flagpole and flag had been made possible through the efforts of the county commissioners. He called them and introduced them in the following order, President, George Bolinger, secretary, Floyd Cotton and Joseph Hannan.

McElwee Speaks
County Solicitor William McElwee spoke in behalf of the county commissioners. Among other things Mr. McElwee said:

"I do not know when men and nations first began to use flags. The use of emblems, ensigns, standards, flags has come down to us out of that past so far distant, that it

McGarvey, of Williamsport, the eastern district superintendent, presiding at the opening; the chair was later given to the assistant superintendent, Rev. E. C. BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 29.—Troops of General Francisco Franco today began their advance on Madrid, heading for a spot between Illescas and Aranjuez to cut the railway which remains the capital's only connection with the world. It was announced at headquarters here.

Clashes On Roads

Madrid, Sept. 29.—Clashes on four roads, the intermittent thunder of artillery, and the click of machine-gun volleys sounded a ready overture today as the rebels, flung in a half-circle from conquered Toledo to the Guadarrama Mountains and the loyalists, their backs to the wall, moved into positions for the decisive struggle for Madrid.

War on other fronts became of third rate importance as both sides recognized that for all practical purposes the conquest of Madrid would mean victory or defeat, but strength was given to the rebel attackers with the announcement that insurgents had moved into Malaga and were drawing close to Bilbao.

Center Of Fighting

The center of fighting on the Madrid sector was at the town of Oñate, ten miles northeast of Toledo, and

Personal Government At Washington To End, Declares Gov. Landon

International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 29.—The American people are determined to end personal government in Washington with its squandering of our resources, its waste, extravagance and incompetence," Governor Alfred M. Landon declared today as he returned to state duties following a seven-day tour of the farm belt.

Plans Fourth Trip.

The Republican nominee, in a happy aggressive mood, immediately announced he would depart next week on his fourth campaign trip—a second invasion of the east—with major addresses in Chicago October 9, Cleveland October 12 and Detroit October 14. At Chicago he will discuss the question of balancing the federal budget, which he pledged in his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination.

Dismiss School At Ben Franklin

Failure To Have Stack In Shape To Heat Building Is Cause

STUDENTS WILL REPORT WEDNESDAY

Due to the rebuilding of the smoke stack on the Benjamin Franklin junior high school and the cold damp weather, the children of the school were dismissed early today and no classes held in the building.

"I do not know what arrangements can be made for tomorrow," said Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent. "When the contract was let to the Alphons Custodis company for the erection of the new smokestack they said that they could build the stack even with a fire in the boilers. Apparently they can not do this and some other means will have to be found."

The stack is hardly started and will require considerable time for its erection. When school convened this morning Principal Frank Burton felt it would endanger the children to sit in cold damp rooms and recommended that the school be dismissed for the day. This was done.

All students are to report at the regular time on Wednesday.

Famous Dinner Ware Being Made At Local Pottery

Shenango Pottery Selected For Manufacture Of American Haviland China

HUNDRED EMPLOYEES ADDED AT PLANT

New Ware Already On Market And Many Orders Have Reached Pottery

Haviland china, world standard for high quality dinner ware for nearly a century is now a New Castle made product. Announcement was made today that most of the Haviland china sold in the United States of America in the future will be manufactured in the plant of the Shenango Pottery of New Castle.

The announcement follows by several weeks the actual manufacture of the ware as it is now on the market. Approximately 100 employees have been added to the plant of the Shenango Pottery, all the available space of the plant is taken up with the regular line and the new line and while no statement was made concerning what may happen it is felt that if the American made Haviland ware continues the phenomenal success which has greeted its appearance, the local plant will certainly have to be enlarged.

President Here

Some time ago William Haviland, president of the Theodore Haviland potteries of Limoges, France, came to the United States for the purpose of investigating the possibilities of manufacturing the ware in this country.

High duties and mounting costs of production in France made it next to impossible to manufacture the ware in France and compete in the American markets. Mr. Haviland was induced to come to New Castle to inspect the Shenango Pottery.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—Flood-wary since the experiences of the March floods, Pittsburgh cast an apprehensive eye at the waters of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers today as a steady rain continued to pelt the district after falling intermittently all night.

(International News Service)
PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 29.—Nine speedy airplanes ripped at dawn today down the runway of the Portsmouth airport and took off on a dash over mountains, sea, and desert for a goal 6500 miles off—Johannesburg, South Africa.

Winner of the harrowing test will receive $20,000 or a $50,000 prize fund offered by Isadore W. Schlesinger, American born South African millionaire rancher, in connection with the Johannesburg exposition.

The other prizes are $15,000, $7,500, $3,000 and $2,500.

All the airmen expected to complete the race in less than 40 hours, although they were allowed a maximum of 120.

Others are Max H. Findlay and Kenneth Walker, Capt. A. M. Miller, Capt. S. H. Hale, W. E. Clouston, Victor Smith, C. G. M. Alington, C. P. Hughesdon, D. W. Lewlyn, and Lieut. P. H. Booth.

Thousands remained up all night to witness all nine planes make perfect take-offs, the last one starting at 6:38 a. m.

ROTARIANS VISIT SHENANGO MILL; HEAR MANY FACTS

of the Shenango works and R. E. Sturdy to the same spot at the New Castle works.

"These are fine men," called Mr. Pyle as he asked both to rise and as the dinner crowd applauded vigorously.

Mr. Crawford has been Mr. Pyle's Shenango works assistant and Mr. Sturdy has been Mr. Pyle's New Castle works assistant and both are outstanding men. Mr. Pyle said their chief assistants would be announced about the first of the year.

It was President Ray S. Tannehill who had opened the meeting and who, casting aside formal address, called upon Fred L. Rentz, who voiced Rotary's appreciation for the mill tour and dinner.

Presented Plaque

Mr. Rentz it was who presented the framed testimonial plaque to Mr. Pyle in behalf of his fellow clubmen, after declaring that "I don't know anyone who is as popular and as well thought of as Dave Pyle." And Mr. Rentz knows, for since childhood the two have been close friends.

After the plaque was presented, Mr. Pyle visibly touched by the honor, made appropriate reply. He told the Rotarians "I consider it an honor to have you here with me on the eve of my retirement."

Then the general head of the plant proceeded to tell his guests something of the meaning of the tin industry to New Castle.

What Plants Mean

Most of the Rotarians and other citizens know that it means prosperity in capital letters, but to make the picture clearer Mr. Pyle declared, as he summed things up:

That 2,900 men and women are now employed at the Shenango works.

That 1,300 men and women are now working at the New Castle works.

That the payrolls of the Shenango and New Castle works combined for the first eight months of 1936 amounted to $4,000,000—the Shenango's was $3,000,000, the New Castle's $1,000,000.

That the production record for the first eight months amounted to 150,000 gross tons of tin plate—or, measured another way, a total of 1,250,500,000 tin cans!

"I think it's an elegant thing for the citizenry to be acquainted with its industries," Mr. Pyle continued at another point, announcing for the first time that "we are planning something new for the city—a 'Family Day' in which all of the families of the men in the mill and of the citizens will be guests of the corporation."

Mr. Pyle indicated that details would be announced later.

Johnson Speaks

As the speaker for the day, J. Edward Johnson, new director of education and training for Carnegie-Illinois with offices in Pittsburgh, came to represent the corporations manager of industrial relations, Ross M. Leffer, unable to come here for the dinner.

Mr. Johnson conveyed Mr. Leffer's sincere regrets on being unable to attend and then spoke at length of the corporation's new training program.

Pointing out that "we are hoping to coordinate the activities of our different plants along the job line," Mr. Johnson, in his descriptive address, made known the proposed training set-up for the score and more of plants which make up the Carnegie-Illinois Pittsburgh district.

The corporation's Chicago district will have a uniform set-up.

The message of the training chief brought the program to a close and the clubmen adjourned to the front of the Shenango works office building to be photographed.

"I intend to rest," was General Superintendent Pyle's reply to a reporter's question at the close. He said his ankle injury "was much better."

REBEL TROOPS START ADVANCE UPON MADRID

thirty miles from Madrid, where the Madrid militiamen staged a strong counter-offensive against the Toledo insurgents and forced them back a short distance. Throughout the fighting the ever-present rebel air force kept up their aerial slaughtering.

Urgent calls for more recruits—the draft has never been imposed during this war—have brought several thousand more men and women flocking to the colors, and reinforcements from the provinces are continually arriving in Madrid, to be dispatched immediately to the front.

Toledo, although in the hands of the rebels, still harbored scores of snipers, and a large force was still engaged there today in "cleaning up" the town.

Three other rightist columns pressed towards Madrid by way of Santa Cruz, Navalcarnero and the Sierra Guadarrama. In the north, General Emilio Mola's forces, according to rebel announcements, moved along the Bay of Biscay coast to within a few miles of Bilbao, while loyalist warships in the harbor shelled the insurgents.

discharge from Deaconess hospital where he underwent a serious operation last June. He would have been 78 years old October 15.

Naval Honors

Preparations were underway for burial with full naval honors at Arlington National cemetery, Washington, Thursday. A conference of naval officials was scheduled today to complete arrangements. Mrs. Hopkins said there would be no services in Boston prior to the funeral.

Admiral Sims retired from the navy on his 64th birthday in 1922. Before and since that time had been one of the most outspoken critics of the navy, frequently disturbing naval authorities in Washington by his discussions of what he considered inadequacy of the American naval system.

the enthusiastic receptions given him through Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri. At every stop, friendly throngs greeted him while his major addresses in The Moines, Minneapolis and Milwaukee won him thousands of congratulatory messages.

To Continue Fighting Campaign.

Promising to continue his "fighting campaign" for the presidency, Landon said:

"Travel during the past week thru the corn belt and the dairy states of the middle west leads to the conclusion that there has developed in these states a determination to end personal government in Washington with its squandering of our resources, its waste, extravagance and incompetence."

"The farmers, the dairy men and the industrial workers in Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois, regardless of party lines, are deeply concerned, as they should be, with the problems of government and the future of the country. They are not only disturbed but aroused by the tendencies of the present national administration."

Farmers Aroused.

"The farmers are aware that the administration's agricultural policies penalize plenty and reward scarcity and have robbed them of foreign markets as well. The dairy men know their markets have been turned over to foreign producers. The workers realize that they have been the victims, under the cloak of social security of a cruel hoax in the form of the largest tax bill in history."

"The people are in a fighting mood. There will be no slackening in the campaign. I shall leave on another campaign trip next week with speeches in Chicago October 9, and in Detroit October 12 and in Detroit October 14."

Back at his gubernatorial desk, Landon concerned himself with state duties. His drought relief organization was ready to report they had virtually eliminated drought suffering in Kansas, although some farmers still need winter feed for their herds.

ALLIANCE CHURCH EASTERN DISTRICT IS IN CONFERENCE

City to the conference, a review of the district superintendent's work during the past year.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock Dr. H. M. Shuman will give his second address in the Second U. P. church.

"New Castle Night"

The opening of the conference at 7:30 p. m. Monday night will have been labeled "New Castle Night" for every clergyman on the platform, with the exception of Rev. S. W. McGarvey of Williamsport, Pa., the district superintendent, was formerly from New Castle, either as a resident or pastor.

Rev. Ben R. Lewis of Corry, Pa., the song leader for the evening, and Rev. H. N. Harvey of Vermilion, O., are former New Castle boys, and both entered the ministry from here.

Rev. Harvey, who is now retired, gave a number of interesting reminiscences, mentioning the early days of the Alliance church in New Castle. He developed that a dozen or more people present last night had attended services at the first meeting place of the Alliance denomination in this city. That was many years ago before the Pearson street church was built.

Rev. A. M. Baggett of Huntingdon, Pa., read a report of the executive, temporary and standing committees.

Delegates Are Welcomed.

The official welcome to the delegates was made by Rev. J. H. Boon, pastor of the local Christian and Missionary Alliance church. He said that he was voicing the sentiments of not only his own congregation but those of the Hoover Heights Tabernacle and People's Mission, who are cooperating as conference hosts.

He spoke of New Castle's splendid reputation as a hospitable convention city and mentioned the numerous conventions and conferences scheduled to take place here this fall.

The response was made by Rev. George B. Morgan, another former New Castle boy who entered the ministry from here, and who is now pastor of a McKeesport church.

Two beautiful vocal numbers, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," were offered by a local octet, comprised of four married couples. This was a much appreciated feature of the evening.

President Gives Address.

Having for his subject "Our Attitude to the Holy Spirit," and text, Ephesians 4:30, "Grieve Not the Holy Spirit," Rev. H. M. Shuman, president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, New York City, delivered the opening sermon of the conference.

To Dr. Shuman, too, this is in the nature of a homecoming for he was pastor here when the Pearson street tabernacle was built, some 25 years ago.

His message last night was of a very inspirational nature and was heard by a large assemblage of people. It was a fitting opening to a convocation in which the spiritual program is to receive a great deal of emphasis and is to dominate every evening session and be interspersed in the daytime business meetings.

There were 129 accredited delegates registered last night and many more were scheduled to arrive today. Among the former local pastors present for the opening was Rev. Milton J. Scripture of Bradford, formerly of the Hoover Heights Tabernacle, who was appointed to take care of the press relations for the duration of the conference.

If you can go through life without ever taking sides, it indicates genius or great tolerance or a yellow streak.

Sterling, city librarian, was absent because of the death of her sister, Miss Minnie E. Sterling. He voiced the sympathy of the campaigners.

Then, speaking for the board, he related, briefly but comprehensively, the reasons that moved the board to enter into a campaign this month.

Building Adaptable

He traced the growth of the present library from a tiny bookroom in the Y. W. C. A. and showed the steps the board has taken time and time again to better library conditions for the citizenry. He told of the proposed expansion to the old post office building, where, with some changes, "we'll have a building perfectly adapted for a library."

Among the interested campaigners who listened intently to the board head spoke was Mayor Charles E. McGrath and other public officials and prominent business and professional men and women, all members of campaign teams.

In the center of the group the tables had been reserved for the women's division of the drive.

Civic club representatives were present in groups and are taking a leading part in the solicitation.

Outlines Campaign Plan

Campaign Director Harry Thayer, called upon after Mr. McCaslin finished, outlined the campaign procedure to the workers. He told them that all the campaign material would be ready for them when the dinner closed. Campaign headquarters, he announced, will be in Room 216 in the Lawrence Savings & Trust company and he invited solicitors to seek advice there.

Mrs. John E. Elliott, heading the women's section of the campaign; Paul G. Dingley, representing Louis B. Round, business division of the city and out of town, and Judge W. Walter Brahm then addressed the workers.

Each emphasized the need for a new library building and spoke words of encouragement for the campaigners.

At the close the prospect cards and subscription forms were distributed and the machinery of the campaign set in motion.

Throughout the city today the workers are visiting prospects and will continue the visitation on Wednesday and Thursday morning. On Thursday at noon the first report luncheon takes place in The Castellotti.

Announcement was made at the close of the dinner that over $12,000 has already been pledged by the men and women working in the advance gifts division. It is believed that that group will account for $16,000 of the $30,000 goal.

The drive is a result of the library's contract with the United States government to acquire the old post office grounds and building for $31,000.

tery, to see for himself what the plant had and samples of ware were made up for him.

Mr. Haviland was delighted with the results. Particularly was he taken with the high calibre of workmen and women in the Shenango plant and it is thought that this feature was the deciding factor in making his decision. The decision is a tribute to the men and women who have made the Shenango brand famous over the world.

Orders Room

With the initial order manufactured and placed in the hands of salesmen the response of stores over the country was amazing. Orders poured in and the local plant is now rushing manufacture and shipments in order to make the December markets over the country.

Ninety-five years ago the Haviland plant at Limoges, France, opened and since then the word Haviland on dinner ware has been comparable to the word sterling on silver. It has always meant the highest quality possible in fine dinner ware and only after Mr. Haviland was convinced that the local pottery was capable of maintaining the standard demanded for Haviland ware did he agree to the manufacture here.

"The decision of William Haviland to have his dinner ware for the United States manufactured in New Castle is a tribute to the men and women in our plant," said James M. Smith, president of the Shenango Pottery Company. "No pottery plant in the world has a higher class of employees and while our equipment is modern and our plant facilities ample I am convinced that the calibre of the Shenango employees is the deciding factor in making his decision."

The ware already on display in the Shenango pottery is beautiful. Attractive both in design and decoration, it has the added advantage of being made in one of the world's most modern china ware plants.

Within a few weeks the better stores from coast to coast will be featuring Haviland china, made in New Castle, Pennsylvania.

MADRID SHIP SUNK IN BATTLE

the Ferrandiz was forced to turn and run for shelter while the Gravina founded.

While this battle, the biggest naval engagement of the civil war, was going on in the same waters where Admiral Nelson scored his great British victory over the Napoleonic French and Spanish fleets in 1805, a Spanish loyalist battleship and destroyer bombarded the rebel town of Barbate, between Cadiz and Tarifa, for two hours.

The Almirante Cervera meanwhile steamed off at top speed in pursuit of a third Madrid destroyer unidentified.

A strange note in the annals of sea warfare was added with the appearance of the French freighter Koutouba, which stood by to pick up survivors from the Gravina.

So thunderous were the volleys from the warships that houses across the straits in Tangier were shaken and the populace awakened before dawn.

Return to Washington

The president will leave Syracuse late tonight, arriving in Washington for a 12 hour stay in which he will dispose of various pressing official duties before heading out on a two day swing through West Virginia into Pittsburgh for another major speech Thursday night, through New York City and Jersey City where lesser speeches will be delivered and winding up again at Hyde Park Friday night.

Just before his train left Hyde Park this morning, Mr. Roosevelt had an engagement with twelve educators from various sections of the country. They represented a "committee on public school education association of the good neighbor league."

nature of a ground-clearing speech to pave the way for those which will follow in rapid succession on specific issues.

The Syracuse trip is to be the first of several invasions of upstate New York. Recognizing that the empire state's 47 electoral votes alone may be sufficient to swing the election his way, Mr. Roosevelt has determined to keep the Republican majority in that section down as much as possible so the expected huge Democratic vote in New York City will overcome it.

The after dinner meeting was called to order by Mrs. J. D. Ingham, retiring president. She thanked the women for the courtesy shown her during the two years she had served as their president, and in a few well chosen words she introduced Mrs. Carl Wilson, the new president, the latter responding most graciously.

Mrs. T. C. Armstrong conducted the devotional period and Mrs. William Donaldson, the new secretary, called the roll. Following transaction of routine business, the chair appointed Mesdames Perry Brest, Clyde Saunders and J. D. Ingham as delegates to the federation meeting held today in Highland U. P. church.

The following women were appointed to serve on the various committees during the ensuing year: Conservation, Mrs. J. R. Lutton; Education, Mrs. Margaret Hogan; Citizenship, Mrs. J. D. Ingham; Legislative, Mrs. Clyde Saunders; Public Welfare, Mrs. T. W. Donaldson.

MISS PHOEBE ROYSTON TELLS WEDDING PLANS

October brides are taking the lead socially, and on Saturday morning, October 3, one of New Castle's loveliest girls, Miss Phoebe Ethel Royston, attractive blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaPayette Royston of Glenmore boulevard, will become the bride of Chris A. Clark, son of Mrs. Sarah Clark, Northview avenue. The wedding will take place in the parlors of St. John's Episcopal church on Wick avenue, Youngstown, O., at 11 o'clock in the morning, and is one of the leading formal fall weddings due to prominence of the principals.

Miss Royston, a popular girl who has acquired a host of friends since moving to New Castle four years ago from Youngstown, O., has named for her only attendant, Miss Barbara Bush of Washington Court House, a member of the Sandusky junior high school faculty. They were classmates at Miami university at Oxford, O., and also were sorority sisters, belonging to the Delta Delta Delta.

Attending Mr. Clark as best man will be his nephew, William C. Reynolds of New Castle. Ushers for the occasion include Attorney Joseph R. McFate and Alfred H. Owens, both of this city. S. Glenn McCracken, principal of the Volant high school, and Wayne Woodford of Youngstown, O.

SPEAKERS HEARD AT NURSES DINNER MEET

Another successful social event was added to the annals of the Jameson-Shenango Nurses Alumni Association Monday evening, when they met at a prominent tea room for a dinner party. The occasion was featured with excellent talks, given by their two guest speakers, Miss Alice Stewart, superintendent of the T. B. League Hospital of Pittsburgh and Attorney William Caldwell of this city.

After the serving of a delicious menu at 7:30 o'clock, Atty. Caldwell was introduced, and he gave an informative talk on the "Library Drive" urging its support by local citizens. He discussed many phases of interest on his chosen subject before the assemblage.

Following, Miss Stewart held the attention of the association with an especially enlightening talk on "The Newest Treatment of Tuberculosis." She told in well chosen words, how the profession has improved the treatment of tuberculosis, which has proven most successful. Both speakers were well received.

The association conducted a short business period afterwards, when Mrs. Alma Scheik, chairman of the affair, was given recognition for the success of the evening. On October 26, the Alumni will meet in the Satorium of the Jameson Memorial Hospital for their regular session.

RAISING THE STANDARD OF LIVING

THE average American lives better than the average citizen of any other country in the world.He eats better food wears better clothing and occupies better living quarters than people in other countries.

He is far more apt to own an automobile and radio.

He has more life insurance and savings.

He travels more and farther.

He is better educated.

He can communicate more readily with his friends and associates.

He has more freedom and pleasures.

He has greater personal opportunity.

In fact, in almost everything that makes life worth living,
he enjoys a position unique among the peoples of the world.

Why is this so?

Under the microscope of economics, three reasons emerge, clear and undisputable.The first is found in our vast natural resources, supplying almost inexhaustible natural wealth. But other countries possess great natural resources, and a far lower standard of living.Second, our unparalleled standard is maintained because the workers of the nation are supported by an enormous supply of power, machinery and available money which can be used—and is being used to convert these natural resources into the necessities and comforts of life.It is in the third reason that economists have found a great and powerful force that has aided us to point far beyond and above any other people or nation, a ceaseless power exerting tremendous pressure toward the elevation of our standard of living, our health, happiness and well being. This is Newspaper Advertising.Our vast natural resources, plus our productive capacity, would dwindle to a fraction of their present importance but for a simple, economical medium of translating them into the trade channels in which flow the necessities and luxuries of our daily life. That is the mission and the accomplishment of Newspaper Advertising.

IS A RACE OF GIANTS DEVELOPING?

The growing boy or girl of today, the American Medical Association reports, is growing taller than the youth of yesterday. A race of giants seems to be in the offing. Every 12½ years for the last eighty years almost two-fifths of an inch has been added to the height of the average American college student, a survey discloses. Students entering college today are, on the average, more than two inches taller than their grandparents. For the population as a whole the rate of growth is somewhat below that of the college youth, but is still decidedly upward.The cause of this interesting trend remains uncertain. Perhaps the more general attention paid to proper diet from infant days up and the greater facilities afforded school children of all ages for physical culture have had much to do in this apparent development of a nation of six-footers—although there are elderly scoffers not above ascribing that two-inch increased growth to other causes.

TESTING LOCAL RELIEF

The local administration of unemployment relief by bipartisan boards, now under way in six counties of Pennsylvania, should provide a useful test of decentralized relief operation. The county board membership is divided equally between Republican and Democratic residents named by the members of the State Emergency Relief Board. They will expend state funds allocated to their respective counties, and will be solely responsible for the expenditures.Local relief supervision has long been advocated in some quarters on the ground that it would prove more efficient and economical than state administration, would result in speedier elimination of chiselers and pretenders from the rolls, and would, if partisan control is prevented, minimize intrusion of politics in relief.The counties chosen for the experiment, Butler, Clarion, Centre, Chester, Carbon and Cumberland, are, it is true, not the largest ones in the state, and problems to be met are more complicated in Philadelphia and Allegheny. At the same time the six-county test should prove interesting and informative. Further decentralization probably will be a subject of debate in the next regular session of the legislature and the results of local management in the six counties should help the legislatures in their study of this treatment of the relief problem.

THINKING OF GRANDMA

I wonder what would grandma say if she could visit us today
And see the girls on tennis courts
Arrayed in halters and in shorts.I think of grandma now and then
Who even frowned on shirt-sleeved men.And wonder how she'd view those lunksWho strut about the place in trunks?Grandma was dainty and discreet;
She even tried to hide her feet;
She wore long skirts, stout shoes and hose.

And never once displayed her toes.

Could grandma leave that happier shoreAnd come to life for one day more She'd glimpse these modern styles and then.With one loud shriek, drop dead again!

AND THE

QUESTIONABLE PRACTICE

After waiting an unreasonably long time for a jury verdict in several cases, Judge Evert Christmore, Oklahoma City, got an idea. He had the comfortable chairs removed from the jury room and substituted hard-seated ones for them.
Then he timed his jurymen and found they reached verdicts averaging an hour less time than before.Deciding to keep up the good work, he took out even the hard-seated chairs and made the jurymen stand while deliberating. That cut down the time still more.The judge's latest move was to nail down the windows, causing the air to become bad in a very short time, which reduced deliberating time of the jury still further.Industry isn't heartless. Coffin manufacturers are making no effort to increase the number of holidays.

ON BOARD THE NORMANDIE,
Sept. 29.—The ancient writer made this admission:There are three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not:The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.What would that inspired writer say of this modern ship in the midst of the sea? The biggest ship he ever saw could be hung from the ceiling of the dining salon on this boat or tucked away in a corner of the sun deck, disturbing no one.A MODERN ocean liner, Queen Mary, Normandie, Rex or Europa, as it crossed the ocean indifferent to waves and winds is a small world in itself, a microcosm, with this little earth playing the role of "cos-mos."If this ship should sail to some new, uninhabited island of Utopia, it might supply everything necessary to start a new civilization better than the one invented by Sir Thomas More, who has been made a saint, since he wrote "Utopia" to amuse himself and had his head cut off for his Catholic faith.On board, with his friend George Bacon, is Myron Taylor, head of the United States Steel Company, biggest industrial unit on earth. He would supply the material for skyscrapers, ships, railroads and machinery, plus organization.Simon Guggenheim would tell them how to make corporations profitable, by "holding on." You understand his abounding cheerfulness remembering how his million odd shares of American Smelting recently selling around five dollars a share, climbed suddenly above eighty.VARIOUS newspaper workers on the boat would be ready to start
"The New Utopia Gazette"; Floyd Gibbons for war correspondent, plus members of the Edward H. Butler family that own the Buffalo News,
and the able Abraham Cahan, known to more New Yorkers than any editor in America, with one exception.And most important to newspaper prosperity, the ship carries Mrs.
George D. Widener, of Philadelphia, who has traveled up and down in every corner of the earth and says of her narrator:"Mr. Brisbane, I have always wanted to meet you, because I read your articles every day."There spoke the nucleus of a highly intelligent reading public without which good newspapers would be published in vain.MRS. VINCENT ASTOR, on her

Jefferson Hoed Tough Row.
Had Continuous Fight On Hands.
Balked By Supreme Court.By LESLIE EICHEL Central Press Staff WriterTHOMAS JEFFERSON'S terms as president of the United States were,
in effect, one continuous campaign —for democratic ideas—from the moment he took office in March, 1801. Out of these two terms grew a party and a succession of Democratic presidents.In the very beginning of Jefferson's first term, it was not so much a matter of looking toward re-election as an endeavor to keep the nation itself on a going basis. That is, on a going basis as a democracy.
Democracy had been pictured by the Federalists as something abhorrent, and dangerous to human welfare.President John Adams, prior to quitting office, had stuffed offices and courts with Federalists to restrain Jefferson from carrying out his democratic ideals.Less than three weeks prior to Jefferson's inauguration, the Federalists, in control of congress, had enlarged the number of federal courts.A few days previously Adams had appointed John Marshall, an outspoken opponent of the Jefferson Republicans (or Democrat Republicans) as chief justice of the United States supreme court.Even possible peace had been bul-warked by the Federalists against Jefferson — against the democratic "revolution" his entry into office presaged.Yet the "atheist" and "political fanatic" began his term with a message of moderate tone, one of such sound democratic principles that many men have ranked it next to the Declaration of Independence as a statement of American beliefs.

REPEALS "UNJUST" LAWS

Jefferson, however hampered by Federalist office holders, proceeded with his plans.Professor Charles A. Beard in "The Rise of American Civilization," explains succinctly the process:"In keeping with Republican criticism of the sedition law, Jefferson first proposed to declare it null and void in a message to congress. But finally he just decided to enforce it against offenders arrested before the expiration of the act on March 3, 1801, and to pardon prisoners then in jail for violation of its provision.
Ultimately, congress repaid most, if not all, the fines that had been collected under the statute.The Republicans (as the Democrats then were) had been de-ceitfully offended by the stump speeches delivered by Federalist judges when instructing juries.
They promptly voted to impeach
Samuel Chase, a justice of the supreme court, who had been especially severe in denouncing Democratic doctrines from the bench. IfJefferson was shocked.

JAPAN SEEKS TO CONTROL CHINA

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Far East is giving the state department some relief from its worries over the situation in Spain—by providing it with an even more immediately threatening situation to worry about in the Orient.
Europe may flare up any day but the United States doubtless will be able to keep out of that conflagration for a while, anyway.
If Japan and China become involved in an out-and-out row, however, Uncle Sam hardly can escape having his toes trodden on at once. He barely missed having them badly stepped on the last time the Japanese and Chinese were exchanging shot and shell at Shanghai a year or two ago.

WHY U. S. IS INVOLVED

The trouble with Shanghai and other Chinese "treaty ports", as they are called, is that, although in China, they are not under Chinese but foreign control.
Shanghai, in particular, is international, with the United States as one of the international partners. If, then, Japan, as another partner, undertakes to grab exclusive authority it encroaches, to an extent, upon what amounts to American soil. Also British, French and Italian.

And to get full control of the port, as all residents of the "international settlement" there realize, is Japan's aim.

THE JAPANESE "GAME"

Japan obviously does not intend to attempt an occupation of all China.

Japanese troops can beat the Chinese wherever they meet them, unquestionably.

But they could not possibly police so large and thickly populated a country. A single Japanese regiment, if it could keep open its line of supplies, probably could cut its way clear across China. But the Chinese would close in behind it, as water closes in behind a moving ship.

The Japanese game it to control the ports—to regulate import and export taxation; to run China economically.

In the extreme north, beyond the Great Wall, where population is thin the mikado may wish to colonize a bit. But not much; the climate isn't favorable to the Japanese.

Essentially the ports are what they are after.

SHANGHAI MOST IMPORTANT

Shanghai is the most important of them.
The Japanese could possess all the remainder and still fail to monopolize Chinese trade with the port of Shanghai open to all and sundry.

Therefore Japan somehow must end internationalism there.

It does not profess any hostility to other national interests in the "settlement". Its ostensible quarrel is with the Chinese, of whom many live in it and a couple of million more live all around it—in the "native city".

It accuses them of all sorts of anti-Japanese activities.

And it is a fact that a Japanese resident or sailor, on shore leave, occasionally is assassinated in international or native Shanghai. The Chinese version is that the Japanese themselves perpetrate these killings, to furnish them with an excuse for retaliation, as they describe it; in reality, the Chinese say, to seize what they are after.

"CONVENIENT" INCIDENTS

And while it may be a mere coincidence, it is true that a Japanese has been murdered or Japanese feelings have been outraged in China in recent years at extraordinarily convenient junctures, from the Japanese standpoint, and that such incidents invariably have occurred somewhere where Japan has been looking for a foothold.

That is to say, the Oriental incident is coincidental with a state of affairs in the Occident of a nature to make it difficult for Occidental powers to divert their attention from their own western troubles to what is occurring in the eastern hemisphere.

In short, every time Europe has seemed to be on the verge of an outbreak of late, Japan has effected a fresh grab on the Asiatic mainland.

Just now, as we know, Spain has the western world in its own hemispherical fit of jitters. Whereupon a Japanese bluejacket opportunely is slain in Shanghai and the Japanese are acting there accordingly.

Just how far they will go remains to be seen, but it will be seen in short order—maybe before the Spanish rumpus spreads in Europe.

BUNGLED PREVIOUSLY

The mikado bungled his last job of trying to seize Shanghai—went at it without sufficient preparation, and a Tokio premier was assassinated by the Samurai (military folk) to teach him to be more efficient.
Perhaps the present premier has learned his predecessor's lesson.

Oh, yes, that sailor's murder may have been only a coincidence. But it was pat; there's no mistake about it.

Letters of administration have been granted by Register and Recorder William R. Hanna as follows: Estate of Blanche Cummings, late of Pulaski, to Anna Mary Stoughton; estate of Angelo Orlando, late of New Castle, to Emilio Orlando; estate of John R. Agnew, late of New Wilmington, to Nettie R. Agnew; estate of Sewell Fulkerson, late of this city, to Lida P. Street.

Attorney General Margiotti is getting considerable notoriety out of his recent announcement that he will personally prosecute the three persons involved in a Uniontown "third degree" murder case. Margiotti, it will be remembered, was the attorney who got most of the notoriety out of the Glenn Dague and Irene Schroeder murder trial here, when they were convicted of killing Corporal Brady Paul, although the local attorneys had the case well developed before he arrived on the scene.

Prothonotary John A. Edgar has prepared a common pleas trial list of the cases which will come up at sessions beginning October 12, October 19 and November 9. There are 37 cases on the list. One of them is an old case, Hendrix against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, filed in 1932. Five were started in 1934, six in 1935 and the balance in 1936.

Speaking of taxes, do you know that Pennsylvania's share of the national debt of $33,788,543,000 on June first was $2,666,000,000. It is estimated that this is approximately three times the value of all farmlands and buildings in the state. This is only the state's share of the national debt. It has nothing to do with your real estate, personal property or the dozens of hidden taxes you are paying on the necessities of life.

Registration Clerk Thomas Edmunds will be ready to issue the street lists of voters shortly after October 3, which is the last day on which registrations can be made. Several clerks have been at work on these street lists and have them in good shape for quick work in issuing them as soon as the latest names are entered.

Now that the flag pole has been raised and the stars and stripes float over the court house grounds, all that is needed to complete the picture is a couple of cannons. The county has been offered two cannons by the war department, at no expense other than the freight. There was a movement early last spring to secure the guns, but it seems that lack of interest caused it to be dropped. Most every court house is protected by a couple of old cannons and Lawrence county court house should have them.

ANNIVERSARY SURPRISE FOR B. H. KANNENBERGS

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Kannenberg on their 25th wedding anniversary, a delightful surprise party was held last night by a small group of the couple's close friends in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karl B. Norris on Wilmington road, at Walmo.

Mr. and Mrs. Kannenberg were married on September 28, 1911. He is the superintendent of the American Can Company plant here.

Sharing the host and hostess roles with Mr. and Mrs. Norris were two other couples, intimate friends of the Kannenbergs. They were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pearce and Mr. and Mrs. William Schoenfeld.

The group enjoyed cards throughout the evening, and at the close was served a delicious lunch by Mrs. Norris, assisted by the other ladies and her daughter, Mrs. Russell Carlson.

With Mr. and Mrs. Kannenberg as a guest was their daughter, Jane. The family reside at 428 East Winter avenue.

RECENT BRIDE HONORED AT LUNCHEON PARTY

A prettily appointed 1 o'clock luncheon was held recently, to honor the new Mrs. Thomas D. Jones of New Wilmington, a bride of September 2. The occasion was given at New Wilmington by Mrs. Robert Briery McCrumb, a bride of June 20. Both were girlhood friends and this happy medium of getting together added further to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Four tables of bridge were in play, with Mrs. Glenn McCracken being presented with the high score prize. Mrs. Jones was the recipient of a lovely gift from the hostess. The serving of a dainty repast concluded the afternoon program.

Out of town guests present were Mrs. Roy Vance, Akron, O., Mrs. Glenn McCracken of Volant, Mrs. James Willard of West Middlesex, Mrs. Martha Goodwin of Oil City, Mrs. Edward Groffend, Mrs. Harold Vance and Miss Helen Groffend of New Castle.

INVITES PROBE OF W. P. A. IN STATE

G. O. P. State Chairman Promises To Provide Abundance Of Evidence

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 29.—Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor today had invited the Loneran senate committee investigating alleged corruption in WPA to come to Pennsylvania for testimony and information.

In a statement issued by the Republican state committee, Taylor said:

"I welcome the news from Washington that the Loneran committee has finally succumbed to the overwhelming pressure of the decent citizens of Pennsylvania and will send investigators into Pennsylvania to examine the WPA political scandal."

"We will greet the senate's investigators with open arms. We have in our files affidavits, photographs, pictures and other information. I promise that we will present enough specimens of WPA political corruption and waste to keep Senator Loneran and his committee busy from now until the 1940 election."

"In order to aid the Loneran committee investigators by centralizing some of this widespread information, I hereby invite any Pennsylvania who wishes to give information about politics in WPA to the United States senate investigating committee, to send it to me in writing."

"I will collect all of this information from every corner of the state and present it to the federal investigators."

Medicine Vendors Face Jury Trial

Chief Sunlight And Princess Sunlight Charged With Illegal Practice

Chief Sunlight and Princess Sunlight, Indian medicine vendors, are on trial before Judge W. Walter Braham at Lawrence county court today on charges of practicing medicine illegally.

Chief Sunlight came into court in American attire, dark pants, light shirt, collar and tie, but with his long hair done up in two braids and tied with bright red ribbon.

Princess Sunlight wore a dress, Indian shawl, feather headgear and big shiny silver colored bracelets on either wrist. It was the first time that Indians had even been in court and they attracted considerable attention. The jury is composed of five women and seven men.

John H. Bishop, from the department of education at Harrisburg, was the first witness called. He testified that he had gone to the place occupied by the Indians in the seventh ward, and met Chief Sunlight. He had asked him if he was the doctor and received an affirmative reply, but called the princess to diagnose the case. When she asked Bishop what was the matter he told her that "his stomach hurt when it got empty."

The princess proceeded to unfasten his shirt, felt around his neck and poked him in the ribs, after which she announced that he was suffering from liver trouble and bronchial affection. She gave him an eight-day treatment of medicine, four bottles and a box of salves, which he had never opened. He paid her $10, marking the bill by punching pin holes through the eyes of the portrait. He marked the bottles and the box and then turned them over to County Detective Leslie and District Attorney Alley.

On cross examination the witness admitted that he had not seen any doctor's sign in the place.

Frank A. Masella, another investigator from Harrisburg, also told about going to the place for treatment. He was also told that his bronchial tubes were inflamed and that he had liver trouble. A number of local witnesses were called who told about going to the Indians for treatment. The case is still on trial.

Winant Resigns

To Answer Landon

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—John G. Winant, twice Republican governor of New Hampshire, and long-time member of the social security board, resigned his post today so as to be free, he said, to reply to Gov. Alf. M. Landon's attack on the social security program.

Winant did not say he would support President Roosevelt for reelection in the campaign, but he did say he could not support Gov. Landon because of the Republican nominee's advocacy of "wrecking" the social security act.

Roosevelt Loses Support Of Big St. Louis Paper

St. Louis Post-Dispatch Says Policies Of President Cannot Be Supported

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch (independent), which supported Democratic candidates in the last five presidential campaigns, has announced that it "cannot support Mr. Roosevelt for re-election to the presidency."

"In simplest possible terms," said the newspaper, which was founded by Joseph Pulitzer, "the overshadowing issue in the coming national election is whether or not we shall set up in America, in defiance of the American tradition and in defiance of the plain intent of the Constitution as it now stands, a government with vast and centralized authority over the economic life of the nation."

Recital Is Given On Baptist Organ

Dr. Marshall Bidwell, Of Pittsburgh, Plays Group Of Numbers Last Night

With Dr. Marshall Bidwell, of Pittsburgh, organist and director of music, Carnegie Institute, at the music, beginning with a short fantasy by Niels Wilhelm Gade based on the fine old German chorale "Lobet den Herren," the first full evening's recital on the new First Baptist pipe organ was given Monday night.

The program was heard by a crowd of people seated in the main auditorium, the balconies and the Sunday school addition of the church. It included selections by Gluck, Dupuis, Bach, the emotional and dramatic Liebestod from "Tristan and Isolde," and a group of compositions written by Garth Edmundson, of New Castle.

The audience applauded so vigorously that Dr. Bidwell added two encores. He volunteered a few remarks at the intermission, complimenting the people of the church upon having secured a fine organ and upon having the services of Garth Edmundson as organist.

When Dr. Bidwell's rendition of Mr. Edmundson's music was offered the crowd applauded enthusiastically and the Pittsburgh professor, in acknowledging the ovation, asked Mr. Edmundson to rise also.

There were musicians present from numerous out-of-town places as well as New Castle. All were strong in their praise of the new Moller instrument and the masterful interpretations offered by Dr. Bidwell. The guest artist was introduced by D. S. Williams.

At 4 P. M.

Because of the weather a last minute change of plans was made today and the annual setting-up conference of the local Young Women's Christian Association will take place at 4 o'clock today in the Y. W. C. A. building instead of Camp East Brook.

Opening with a tea, arrangements for which are in charge of Mrs. C. R. Ralph and Mrs. C. M. Mrs. Glenn Berry will lead the discussion on educational and club program work. Mrs. O. P. Brown will lead the discussion on service work, which includes employment, traveler's aid, case work, and so forth and one of the finance committee members will lead the discussion on finance.

"Know Your Y" will be the theme of the conference. A service of worship led by Mrs. Robert Eckles, president of the board, assisted by Mrs. Raymond Williams, of the Elm St. Branch will close the afternoon session.

Supper will be enjoyed at 6 o'clock. Leaders of each discussion group will then report the substance of suggestions presented and accepted. Skits will be offered by the New Castle high school Girl Reserve clubs and a group of songs will be offered by Shenango Girl Reserves.

Let any in the steerage weak enough to envy the sundeck remember that sundeck ancestors came also in the steerage and that descendants of today's steerage passengers may some day find sun-deck descendants as chauffeurs, valets or maids. He declared that this supreme court decision vitiated the constitution.

The constitution had established the departments, to check and balance one another.

And now, he wrote in these emphatic words, "it has given, according to this opinion, to one of them alone the right to prescribe rules for the government of the others, and to that one, too, which is unelected and independent of the nation."

"The constitution, on this hypothesis, is a mere thing of wax in the hands of the judiciary which they may twist and shape into any form they please. It should be remembered, as an axiom of eternal truth in politics, that whatever power in any government is independent, is absolute also. . . .

WHERE KING ENTERTAINS MRS. SIMPSON

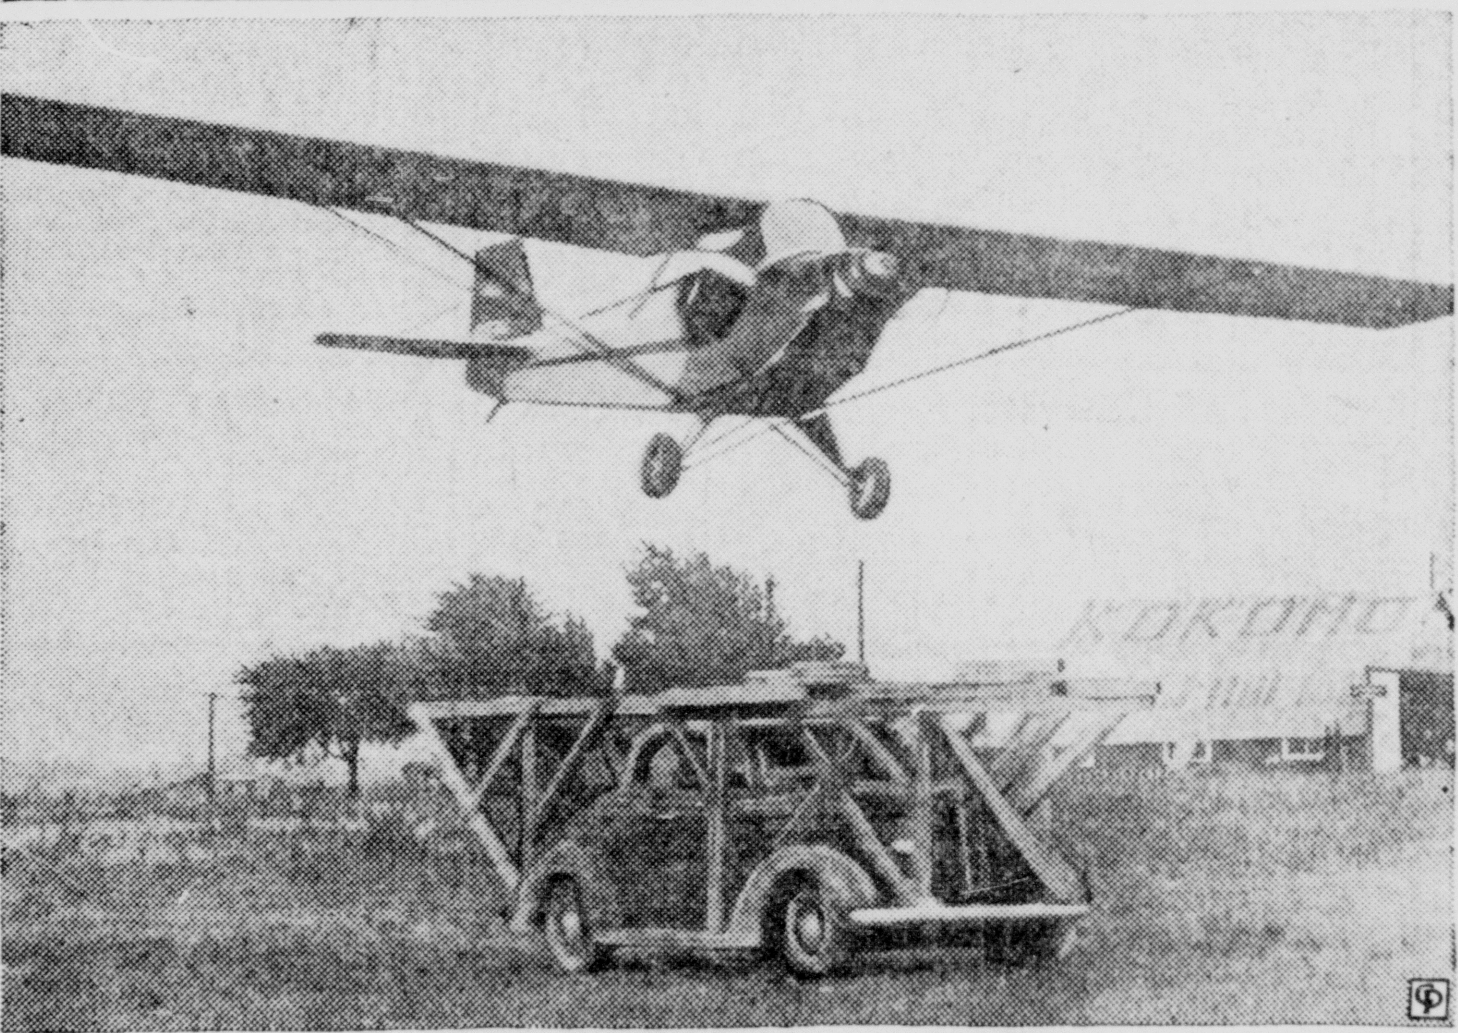

Probably the first American—aside from a ranking government official—to be a house guest of a British monarch, Mrs. Ernest Simpson, formerly of Baltimore, is among those invited to Balmoral castle in Scotland by King Edward VIII. The king went down to the station informally to greet his visitors. The king had a small room, used by a servant, remodeled for himself, at the same time converting the large royal bedroom into a guest room. Mrs. Simpson was a guest also on the private yacht in which King Edward took his recent vacation trip to southern Europe.

Get Direct Result Here Of New Deal "Economy Of Scarcity" Program

Adding to the mounting cost of living is an announcement by ocean freight carriers of a sharp increase in freight rates, on shipments coming from Europe to the United States. The increase is now in effect for cargoes on the high seas and is an evidence of what the "economy of scarcity" governmental philosophy has done for the United States.

One of New Castle's industrial plants, the Shenango Pottery, was able to circumvent the increase for a time by purchasing unusually large stocks of china clay found only in England. Realizing what the tremendous increase would mean, the local plant sent a rush order for large stocks of the clay and managed to get them across the water before the new rates went into effect.

The reason for the increase in freight rates seems to be this: Almost all small freight boats plying the Atlantic, and these haul the most of the freight, have been contracted for by concerns shipping wheat and other foodstuffs into the United States, it is reported.

With their holds guaranteed cargoes of foodstuffs that the United States should have raised itself, the freight carriers raised the ante and the sharp increase in freight rates will be felt in similar increases in all kinds of goods imported from Europe.

The "economy of scarcity" has brought prosperity to the European shippers of wheat, pork and other foodstuffs and higher prices to the American housewife.

College President Warns Of Communism

(International News Service) VILLANOVA, Pa., Sept. 29.—On the eve of the opening of the academic year, the student body of Villanova College was admonished by Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president, to "Beware of the Red Scourge of Communism."

The student need only look to Spain to observe the damage inflicted by Communism, Dr. Stanford advised.

"What is happening in Spain lends emphasis enough to the warnings of thoughtful leaders in our country against the dangers of Communism," he said. It points out clearly the necessity for arousing thoughtful people to the dangers that may result from unmoral and unreligious education.

Important News for Well Dressed Women

Smith's improved Furrier's method of cleaning and glazing fur, renews and lengthens the life, and makes the fur soft and pliable.

It's almost unbelievable the results that are attainable with Smith's new improved method of fur glazing. It is so superior to the old process that it is really surprising how much difference it makes in furs. Requiring the use of a special product imported from the Orient, this process softens fur, renews their color, adds life, and is approved by the leading furriers of the country.

The fur industry recommends fur that is a year or two old, requires oil treatment to prevent it from drying up and losing its life as well as to prevent shedding.

Fur scarfs or any type of fur worn throughout the year, regardless of how inexpensive or how delicate, should be glazed at least once during this period to preserve the life and prevent the fur from going to destruction.

After the fur is treated with oil, it is placed in an electric fur beater machine which works very rapidly and beats the oil into the hide. This process also restores the lustre of the fur nap.

Smith's electric fur glazing machine combined with the Lande Steaming Process, gives amazing results on both long and short nap furs, from the lowest to the highest grades. It also untangles the most curly and kinky furs.

Smith's also have an Ossan fur sewing machine, recommended by the entire fur industry as being the best and most satisfactory fur stitching machine on the market. It eliminates marks on the fur side after stitching has been done.

Smith's match up furs, reinforce furs, reline furs and alter fur garments. Worn-out edges shortened or lengthened.

Send your fur or fur-trimmed coat to Smith's—Phone 885. Most reasonable prices.

in the south central part of the state awaited the crests of the torrents, fearful of what may happen, but hopeful that the water will spread over lowlands so that the water will not be as deep along the lower streams as it was up rivers.

Residents Warned
One of the places watched most closely was where the Little and Brazos rivers join near Hearne and below Cameron. The high waters of the two streams were expected to meet sometime late today.

Ample warnings have been given lowland dwellers and they have gone to higher ground taking their livestock and what property they could.

Rehabilitation and relief were well under way here. City Manager W.
T. Torrance estimated damage to East Waco was $500,000 and county agriculture agent J. C. Patterson estimated the loss to farm property in McLennan county at about $1,000,- 000. San Angelo, ten days ago suffered a loss estimated by some residents of that city as high as $5,000,- 000.

Austin, through which the Colorado flows, was safe today, the crest having passed there yesterday.

France Pushes Devaluation Of Franc Program

Chamber Of Deputies Passes Measure By Vote Of 350-221

By LINDESA PARROTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Lashed into line by political "whips" leftist deputies who had rebelled against elimination of important social features of the new financial bill rallied into a united front again today and pushed the "nickel franc" through the chamber by a vote of 350 to 221.

Over the earlier protests of the communists, the franc devaluation measure was stripped of its "sliding salary scale" provision, aimed to compensate government and other workers for possible increases in the cost of living.

In its place, however, there were guarantees that the government would curb price increases.

With the radical socialist party supporting the bill as amended, it is expected easily to pass the senate, where debate begins tomorrow.

Officers Hunt For Young Man In Pittsburgh

Son Of Former New Jersey
State Legislature Is Strangely Missing

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—State and city police today joined private detectives in an attempt to locate Robert Lynd Pascoe, 27, missing son of Herbert J. Pascoe, of Elizabeth, N. J., former speaker of the House of Assembly of New Jersey.

Young Pascoe, an employee of the Pennsylvania railroad on location at Canonsburg, disappeared last Friday after reporting to the railroad medical office here, according to police. The former speaker, accompanied by another son, Edwin W. Pascoe, came to Pittsburgh today to assist police in the search.

"I can't conceive what could have happened to Robert," the father said. "He personally had all the money he needed and there was plenty more at home. There wasn't a reason in the world to account for his disappearance. In some way, I feel he might have met with foul play."

BLACK LEGION CASE TO JURY

Twenty-Eight Days Consumed
With Case Against 12
Members Of Cult

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Sept. 29.—While extra guards patrolled the courtroom and searched every spectator entering it, the Black Legion murder case went to the jury today, just 28 days after the 12 members of the hooded cult were placed on trial for the night-ride slaying of Charles A. Poole, an obscure WPA worker.

Extra guards, including six plain clothesmen and nearly a score uniformed deputies, had been ordered to prevent any possible demonstration. The officers also searched every spectator for possible weapons.

Lindbergh Baby Yarn "Blows Up"

(International News Service)
DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 29.—Rumors that the kidnapped Lindbergh baby was living at a camp at a lake near Dallas, circulated late yesterday, remained just that today. An all night hunt by newsmen had failed to find the woman reported to have the child which rumor said "was or might be that of the famous flier."
In the meantime officers, federal, county and city were not taking any part in running down the reports.

Jury Finds Nine Of Black Legion Members Guilty

Two Others Had Waived
Trials, Seven Found Guilty Of First Degree

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Sept. 29.—Eleven members of the night-riding Black Legion today were found guilty of a single murder—the fantastic slay-ing of Charles A. Poole, an obscure WPA worker. Another was acquitted.

Nine of those convicted were found guilty by a jury and Presiding Judge Joseph A. Moynihan found two others who had waived jury trial guilty.

Of the 11, seven were convicted of first degree murder carrying a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment and four were found guilty of second degree murder, which will make them eligible for parole in 20 years.

At the same time, the jury of nine men and three women found one of those tried, Herschel Gill not guilty.

His acquittal was not a surprise since it had been urged by the state after it found he could not be linked to the crime.

are the only ones who don't hear about it.

'Wally' Simpson Vivacious Woman Cousin Declares

Mrs. Anne Gordon Suydam,
Of Washington, Talks
About "Mystery Woman"

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Accepting from her women acquaintances and even from the divorced wife of her husband—Baltimore-bred "Wally" Simpson, who has been piling around with King Edward as his guest on social and vacation jaunts, has both "it" and brains.

That's what her cousin, Mrs. Anne Gordon Suydam, of this city, said when asked to determine just what the dashing Bessie Wallis Warfield Simpson has that perhaps no other woman has to attract Great Britain's bachelor king.

Is House Guest
At present Mrs. Simpson is a house guest of the king at Balmoral Castle in Scotland, and was one of his companions on his recent jaunt to Mediterranean resorts in his imperial yacht.

Her cousin says "Wally" is beautiful at 40, witty, charming and blessed with "an extraordinary vitality and personal glow which radiates to all persons she meets like a magnetism."

Furthermore Mrs. Suydam believes the American-born woman whose friendship with the king has both Europe's royalty and America's social register mystified and affluent is devoted in her love for her English husband.

She places little stock in the rumors Mrs. Simpson's husband, Ernest Simpson, a London ship-broker, intends to move into bachelor quarters because of the gossip-mongers linking the names of his wife and the king together.

Walls, charged with felonious assault and battery on Marvin Tobin, returned a verdict at court today of guilty on the third count of the in-tery, but not guilty on the first and second counts, charging felonious assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery, respectively.

The parties are colored and the trouble occurred when Walls cut Tobin with a penknife during an argument.

WILL REQUIRE MONTH TO ESTABLISH CASH RELIEF

Transition Is Made Slowly

Cash Relief Plan To Be Instituted By Counties In Succession

WILL BE COMPLETE BY NOVEMBER 1

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Sept. 29.—Cash relief in Pennsylvania was slowly becoming a reality today. It will be another month, however, before the plan is completely effective.

Checks to relief recipients in four small counties of the state, it was learned, were on their way today in place of the usual commodity orders and state emergency relief board officials are planning to place the entire system on a cash basis "by slow dribbles."

The counties which will receive cash payments today were Butler, Chester, Clarion and Cumberland. SERB officials said, and Centre and Carbon counties will be placed on the money basis Thursday and Friday, respectively.

The six counties being placed on cash relief this week, it was pointed out, are the same areas chosen by the SERB to experiment with the possibilities of returning relief to local administration. Non-partisan boards of four members each are now studying the problem in these counties.

Will Take Entire Month.

Because of the program's complexity and routine work involved, SERB officials indicated it will take all of October before cash relief on a state-wide basis becomes an accomplished fact. Allegheny and Philadelphia counties have been on cash relief for more than 18 months and are unaffected by the latest change.

Following is the schedule the

SERB expects to follow in inaugurating cash relief in the remainder of the state's counties:

October 6, Adams, Fulton, Bedford, Huntingdon; October 7, Franklin, York, Mifflin, Forest, Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery; October 8, Westmoreland, Juniata; October 9, Bradford, Columbia, Monroe, Montour, Pike, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Wayne, Wyoming, Venango; October 10, Beaver; October 13, Lebanon; October 14, Mercer; Lycoming; Tioga; October 14 and 17, Lackawanna; October 15, Lehigh, Clearfield, Clinton, Perry; October 16, Potter; October 17, Dauphin, Lawrence; October 20, Snyder, Union, Jefferson, Armstrong; October 21, Elk, Greene; October 22, Northumberland; October 23, Northampton, Washington, Blair, Indiana, McKean, Warren, Cameron; October 24, Lancaster.

Report Migration Of Farm Families From Drought Areas

Huge Number Of Families Are Seeking Locations Along West Coast

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Migration of tens of thousands of farm families, from the drought areas of the west has presented a new problem, W.P.A. and Resettlement Administration officials revealed today.

More than 60 percent of the agricultural lands of the nation have been hit by the excessive droughts of 1934 and 1936, and less extensive drought in 1930.

A total of 1,163 counties, of the 2,178 counties in 24 drought states, have been classified as emergency drought territory—more than one-third of the nation's 3,070 counties.

From the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming particularly, thousands of families have loaded their personal belongings in the family cars and headed for other lands—chiefly to the west coast.

"Our reports show that more than 170,000 families from the drought areas are moving up and down the California coast, looking for some place to land," Joseph L. Dailey, assistant resettlement administrator, said today. "They don't know where they are going, or what they are going to do. There are more thousands in Oregon and Washington."

"We have set up information service to tell them where farm lands are available, where they may be able to find work. Our service can tell them what kind of farm lands they will find, and what kind of farming conditions."

STALIN TIGHTENS GRIP AT MOSCOW

Names New Chief For Former "O. G. P. U. And Commissioner Of Communications"

(International News Service) MOSCOW, Sept. 29.—Josef Stalin tightened his grip on the secret police and acted to reorganize the Soviet union's communications system today with the appointment of a new chief of the former "OGPU" and a new commissar for communications.

Nikolai Yezhov, 41, former vice-commissar for agriculture and member of the communist party central committee, has been chosen commissar for internal affairs, which makes him head of the secret police.

Alexei Rykoff, recently linked to the alleged anti-Stalin plot that cost Gregory Zinoviev and Leon Kameney their lives, and later exonerated, was removed as commissar for communications in a surprise move.

In his place Henry G. Yagoda, who gave way to Yezhov, was appointed.

CORN CUTTERS ARE SCARCE IN OHIO (International News Service) LONDON, O., Sept. 29.—Reports from various sections of Madison county indicate that corn cutters from the Southern Ohio hills and from Northern Kentucky are fewer in number this year than for many years, probably due to the fact that many are working on government jobs or have obtained employment for the fall without making the annual trek to Central Ohio for their winter's supply of money.

For a score of years, the "knights of the corn knife" have been coming into this and adjoining counties in bands of from 50 to 500 to cut and husk corn before returning to the hills for the winter.

This year, local labor has been used for what corn cutting has been started and reports indicate that the supply will just about handle the demand.

Coal Mines Busy Near Grove City

GROVE CITY, Sept. 29.—The fall movement of coal from the Grove City field is now well under way, with a steady string of trucks carrying fuel from the two-score independent mines of this district. Most of the coal goes north to Erie and Cleveland.

In the past two years the boom in mining in the Grove City district has attained proportions equivalent to the peak in 1916. Many mines abandoned a decade ago because operations were unprofitable, have been re-opened, giving employment to approximately 2,000 men in a 15-mile radius of Grove City.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—With a neat bit of strategy, Mayor William N. McNair today obviated the political dilemma which had been brewing for next Thursday, at which time both Roosevelt and Knox will be in town to deliver speeches.

McNair is a Democrat but is opposed to Roosevelt. He didn't want to appear Republican by going to hear Knox.

So he took the bull by the horns and announced he would be in Westmoreland county Thursday to inspect flooded mines and see if the streams are going to be polluted by the mine water.

Import Mexican Labor To Pick Crop Of Cotton

Thousands Of Cotton Crop Pickers Are Needed In Southern States

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 28.—Some 500 Delta cotton planters today were importing Mexican labor from Texas and New Mexico to pick their cotton.

There was danger that cotton in many sections of Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and north Louisiana would be left to rot in the fields. The crop has matured this year from one to three weeks earlier than usual, and in these four states at least 8,000 cotton pickers are urgently needed.

Planters are chartering boxcars along the Texas and New Mexico borders to bring in Mexican labor, and in Louisiana many sugar planters are sending their laborers into the cotton fields of Mississippi and north Louisiana to save the cotton crop, with the promise of the cotton planters of a "return to the farm" when the sugar crop matures.

The WPA in Mississippi has recognized the emergency and has out of hundreds of relief workers off the public payroll with the admonition to "go into the fields and expect nothing further from the government until the cotton is picked." But Mississippi alone says it needs at least 3,000 cotton pickers.

AROUND CITY HALL

Chief of Police Ralph Criswell's determination to dry up the illegal wet spots on Sunday came with astounding quickness. Several places listed as disorderly houses were raided and the persons who placed forfeits to gain their freedom did not appear for a hearing. In one of the 20 persons were found, according to the raiding officers. Legalized liquor establishments close on Sunday and the chief of police by sending out a "flying squadron" demonstrated that places where liquor is illicitly sold on Sunday or any other day can expect a visit by the police.

Residents of the South Side will feel considerably happier today than they did a week ago owing to councilman decision, and by the way, unanimous, to ask the W. P. A. to approve the Big Run project. The approval by the W. P. A. no doubt will result in work beginning next spring. Councilman James L. Fink having found a way for the city to pay its share (about $19,997) nothing now remains in the way of approval by the W. P. A.

Council adopted resolutions Monday whereby the city will ask two property owners to remove trees which Mayor Charles E. McGrath believes in such condition they are apt to fall and cause injury to pedestrians. The trees are located on the property of the Union Trust company on lot 378 city survey 35 and lot 444, city survey 28, and also on the property of Ralph Heller, Sampson street, lots 39, 40 and 41 in city survey 27. According to city solicitors, the board of health (city council) has power to have the trees removed.

It developed during council meeting yesterday that Fritz McMillen worked as an assistant at the city mechanic's shop and has not yet received his salary. Apparently no one wrote McMillen's name on the payroll and when he went to the pay window no pay was there for him. He was employed temporarily. Councilmen recited Monday what work had been done by McMillen. However, no one apparently knew on what pay roll his name should be written. Inasmuch as all of the council realize that he worked and the money is due him it may be necessary to cut some of the red tape that keeps him from drawing his wages. McMillen was employed temporarily owing to the large amount of work needed suddenly on city motor vehicles.

PROBE OF W.P.A. CHARGES LIKELY TO BE DELAYED

Public Hearings Before November Elections Seem Unlikely

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Investigation of charges that the WPA is being used to win Pennsylvania for President Roosevelt was ordered by the senate campaign funds committee but today a public hearing before the election seemed unlikely.

Senator Loneragan (D) of Connecticut, chairman, said that Louis R. Glavis, chief investigator, will take a staff into Pennsylvania to investigate the WPA, and that public hearings depended on his report. The election is but five weeks off.

Loneragan also said he was satisfied that coercion had been used in plants of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company at Clairton, Pa., and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company at Aliquippa to vote Republican.

Investigation of alleged industrial coercion of workers also will be continued. There was a possibility that hearings may be ordered before the election, Nov. 3.

Senator Davis (R) of Pennsylvania, who demanded the WPA investigation and charged that Democratic politicians were coercing relief workers, issued a call to party chairmen in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia to present detailed evidence of the alleged intimidation.

"I have submitted affidavits and will ask the party heads to furnish others," said Senator Davis.

"Everything pertaining to the WPA will be investigated in Pennsylvania and in any other state where charges are made," said Loneragan.

shades off into mystery. Certain it is, however, that about 3425 years ago the children of Israel were encamped in the wilderness of Sinai. Two years before that they had arrived, a mass of human beings, without organization, without ambition other than to escape from their masters in Egypt, and wholly unfit to conduct themselves and their little ones to the land of promise. In the midst of this confusion came the command of the God of their fathers: "Every man of the children of Israel, shall pitch by his own standard, with the ensign of their fathers' house. The flags of Judah and of two other tribes were to the east, the flags of Reuben and of two other tribes were to the South. The flags of Ephraim and of two other tribes were to the West. The flags of Dan and of two other tribes to the North. By his standard, his ensign, his flag, every man knew his place and order came out of confusion.

Emblem Of Good Order

A flag is an emblem of good order. "Breathes there a man, with soul so dead

Who never to himself has said, 'This is my own, my native land.' There are such, but not Francis Scott Key. In 1814, this young lawyer, virtually a prisoner on his own ship, saw the sun go down on the flag of his native land still flying over Fort Mifflin. Next morning, after a night of "rockets red glare," and "bombs bursting in air," he saw "by the dawn's early light," he saw "our flag was still there." Francis Scott Key then wrote the song that will live and be cherished as long as America lives.

Emblem Of Devotion

A flag is an emblem of devotion to a great cause. In September, 1862, Lee's victorious armies were marching through Fredericksburg, Md. A woman almost 96 years old, loyal to her country and its flag, risked her life in defiance of the "rebel horde." Need I name this heroine of Fredericksburg? Her name is a household word wherever liberty survives.

A flag is an emblem of loyalty. We honor John J. Pershing who honored his flag and our flag in France. No real American wants our armies to be absorbed by either the French or the British, or the stars and stripes to be subservient to the standard of any other nation. This is a land of independence not a tail to a French or British kite. As long as we do not permit ourselves to be absorbed by other nations, or permit our pure principles to be corrupted by the poison of other lands, we can be free and independent.

Emblem Of Independence

A flag is an emblem of independence. The county commissioners now present this flag as an emblem of good order; an emblem of devotion to a great cause; an emblem of loyalty to this land of liberty; an emblem of independence. The county commissioners have erected this flagstaff so that in New Castle and Lawrence county, the Star Spangled Banner may long continue to wave. "O'er the land of the free and home of the brave."

Our Flag and Courts

Attorney William J. Caldwell, scheduled to give the principal address, spoke on, "Our Flag and Our Courts." Among other things he said:

"Exercises connected with the flag of our country cannot be too frequently held. Certainly this was never more true than at the present time. It is also especially fitting that the American flag be permanently displayed at the court house of the county. It should be equally true of every court house in the land."

Our flag and our courts have a very direct and natural relationship, and the influence of that relationship was never more needed than at the present time. Surely, in a world that is witnessing such spectacles as the madmen in Spain, when whole nations have lost the vision of democratic freedom and simple justice, it well behooves the true American to give heed to the fundamental principles of his government. He cannot have too great care that his own home be in order."

"Now a great deal could be said about the American flag. It is as we know the mightiest symbol of national power in the world. Probably no eulogy that we could heap upon it would be too extravagant to express the affection that it typifies in the minds and hearts of millions of our countrymen.

A Local Event

"But today we are dealing with it in a local way. We are chiefly concerned with the fact that we are to raise the flag above our own court house, the value of our own courts and that these courts in turn afford to each of us our opportunity for receiving justice in all our dealings with our fellow men."

"Consequently it seems to me most fitting that I should take the time to comment very briefly upon the significance of the American flag to our own courts in Lawrence county. Now the flag is in a very real sense the symbol of the constitution. For it is the constitution that has given to us our existence as a nation."

After quoting the preamble, the speaker continued: "It was no accident the founding fathers declared as the first purpose the founding of a more perfect union; the establishment of justice. They knew only too well by their own bitter experiences what it meant to be deprived of justice."

Had Known Tyranny

"They had known tyranny and they had known it at first hand. They proposed above all things that it should not happen here. They succeeded so well in their purpose that today the American people are accustomed to take justice for granted. It has become to us a commonplace. We expect it as confidently as the rain and the seasons. The idea of the law has always been to bring justice to every man's door. Nowhere in the world has this ideal been realized to the extent that it has been in the United States."

"Now the American flag means many things to the courts of Lawrence county. It means, first of all, a fair trial to every man. It means that no man may be deprived of his life, liberty or property without due process of law. It means that no property can be taken from him without just compensation. It means that if accused of crime he shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of his peers. It means his bail shall not be excessive, nor his punishment cruel nor unusual."

"The flag means further, a guarantee to each of us that full faith and credit shall be given throughout the union to the judicial proceedings of our own courts. In other words the American flag symbolizes a very personal interest in the rights and liberties of our citizens."

Enforcement Machinery

Yet all the guarantees of the constitution mean little without the machinery for their enforcement. It is this point that in my judgment needs special explanation and never more so than today. All the rights and liberties of the people, guaranteed by the constitution, the right free speech, a free press, freedom of religion and all the privileges and amenities in the bill of rights might become mere empty phrases without the machinery of our courts. It is to the independence of the judiciary, as a co-ordinate branch of our government that the American citizen, in the last analysis, must look for his protection."

"At a time when the sky of so many nations is obscured by Fascism and communism, it behooves every true American to give heed to the machinery of his liberties. The danger is that the clouds are spreading. Alien voices on many sides are spreading doctrines contrary to American ideals. We dare not ignore the facts. If I could leave one thought with you it would be this: It is of the utmost importance that every American realize once and for all, that no reorganized nation is a free nation. No centralized system of government is a safe system, that does not preserve inviolate the independence of the courts. If the power to make laws, administer laws and construe laws ever falls into the same hands in this country, American liberties are at an end."

Chairman Davis then introduced Judges James A. Chambers and W. Walter Braham. Judge Chambers bowed to the crowd. Judge Braham spoke briefly on the relationship of the flag and the constitution to the courts.

Our Flag and Courts
Attorney William J. Caldwell, scheduled to give the principal address, spoke on, "Our Flag and Our Courts." Among other things he said:

"Exercises connected with the flag of our country cannot be too frequently held. Certainly this was never more true than at the present time. It is also especially fitting that the American flag be permanently displayed at the court house of the county. It should be equally true of every court house in the land."

Our flag and our courts have a very direct and natural relationship, and the influence of that relationship was never more needed than at the present time. Surely, in a world that is witnessing such spectacles as the madmen in Spain, when whole nations have lost the vision of democratic freedom and simple justice, it well behooves the true American to give heed to the fundamental principles of his government. He cannot have too great care that his own home be in order."

"Now a great deal could be said about the American flag. It is as we know the mightiest symbol of national power in the world. Probably no eulogy that we could heap upon

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—Joseph R. Jones, the Pennsylvania railroad's oldest retired employee, today celebrated his 101st birthday at Soldier's Home, Washington, D. C., where he has been living the last 12 years.

Jones' son, Thomas, was retired from the railroad's employ three years ago after more than 45 years' service.

Locomotives were still known as "puffing Jennies" and looked upon with awe when they attained a speed of more than 20 miles an hour when the elderly Jones began railroading.

First Two Games At Polo Grounds

Indications Point To Million Dollar Series Between New York Teams

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The soap-box army was ready today to fall into line outside the Polo grounds in the chill darkness of early Wednesday morning for the opening game of the world series between the Giants and Yankees.

The first game, as well as the second and sixth—all in the Giants' park—already is a sellout for reserved and box seats, and the early arrivals among the soap-box squatters will get the best of 20,000 unreserved grandstand seats and 4,000 bleacher perches.

New York City Baseball 'Mad'

Fans Eagerly Await Start Of World's Series Between Yanks And Giants

Teams Exchange Fields For Final Workouts Today, Odds Shortened

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—This is a town that fancies itself as being so hard boiled that death is an incident and the key to the city is a whistle stop—with garlic on its breath—this morning as it went into the day-before-throws of an all-New York world series with a native vet and enthusiasm that promised to break a few records before the finish of the week.

The first to go, so the professional gamblers say, will be the world series betting record, which is supposed to wind up under the wash stand with an estimated total of $25,000,000 in wagers throughout the nation.

Tickets In Demand.

That is a pretty fair sum of money to be sending in on the antics of a couple of five-cent ball teams but no more baffling than the tip this morning on Mr. I. McGoffert's Gomez and the fact that ticket sharpshooters will consent to accept $50 for a strip of tickets, valued at 16.

It is also possible to stand all night outside the Polo grounds at no cost at all and hotel guests who came in here fancying a room with bath found it simpler to compromise on a room with bed. But, outside of that, the situation is being handled superbly and it's great to be in a town so broad-gauged and magnificent that a thing like the world series makes no impression.

Pearson Injured.

It's making so little this morning that approximately half of that 25 million, according to Jack Doyle, is being bet inside the city limits. Mr. Doyle says the odds are still 13 to 10 if you want to take the Giants short end, but that the price was narrowing toward 6 to 5, what with the back injury of Monte Pearson, who had been expected to pitch the third game for the Yankees.

Pearson again will work out with his club when it goes through the motions at the Polo grounds today, while the Giants are over at the Yankee stadium. But no one seriously considers Monte in the running at this point.

The man of the hour, indeed, is said to be L. McG. Gomez who, they say, is almost certain to be named by the Yankees to pitch the opening game tomorrow against Carl Hubbell. Until recently, Mr. Gomez had difficulty in getting the side out before darkness but they do say that Mr. Gomez, with his low stuff, is just the guy to stop Ott, Terry and Moore. If that turns out to be true, he will have stopped the whole ball club.

Giants Wake Hitters.

Barring the above three, the Giants are not a team that hits the ball on the nose. It hits it on the eyebrow—and waits for Hubbell to do everything but cover the left field foul line. We may have had more comical world series clubs, but none more disconcerting to gaze upon; that is, when Hubbell isn't operating. The Giants don't even run like ball players. Most of them hit with a mandolin—and it takes three to score one.

Mr. McCarthy's decision on Gomez or Red Ruffing for the first game is supposed to be made after today's practice. But, if he's a sensible man, he'll stop pestering himself unnecessarily, pitch anybody tomorrow and wait for the suckers on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Troop F Loses To Akron Team

Before 3,000 persons, Troop F polo team lost a 6-2 decision to the first Akron Cowboys, at Akron, O. Sunday.

The game was exciting from start to finish. The Akron Cowboys defeated the local "riders" several weeks ago, here.

College Football Doings In Brief

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—Home from their training camp at Minisink Hills in the Pocono mountains, Pennsylvania's football warriors have started putting the finishing touches on their training at Franklin Field for this Saturday's opening game against Lafayette.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 29.—Ernie Nevers, new football tutor at Lafayette, planned a series of strenuous scrimmages this week for his maroon eleven which got away to a poor start last Saturday by dropping the season's opening game to Muhlenberg, 19-6.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—Despite the two successive early season victories by his 1936 gridiron machine, Glenn S. "Pop" Warner today declared there is still room for improvement in Temple's starting team. The "Old Fox" expects to make a couple of changes before his charges tackle the University of Mississippi here Friday night in their third game of the fall campaign.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 29.—Not satisfied with the 7-6 victory his team eked out over Albright on Saturday, Coach Alan M. Holman of Franklin and Marshall Monday put his charges through a lengthy black-board drill.

Women Golfers Are Qualifying

By NAN O'REILLY
International News Service Sports Writer

CANOE BROOK COUNTRY CLUB, Summit, N. J., Sept. 29.—Talk about a headache!
Double portions of aspirin have been ordered for the officials of the United States Golf association as the second day's play began bright and early today for the postponed finish of the national women's championship qualifying round on the south course.

Possibly it couldn't have been helped, considering the size of the field. Maybe the answer is in sectional qualifying, and the U. S. G. A. did the best it could. Regardless, the 1936 qualifying test will go down in history as the most confused affair on record.

Nineteen women, "called on account of darkness," are resuming play just where they left off late last night. Only one player, Bette Waterhouse of Maryland, is conceded to have a chance to get in. And getting in means not actually qualifying in the select 64, but becoming involved in a play-off where, in already there are 14 ready to fight tooth and nail for nine places, with scores of 91 to their credit.

Recent Bride Medalist.
When the tumult and the shouting died away long after sundown last night, there were actually 55 women certain of making the grade with scores of 90 or better. There were 69 at 91 or better, but some of this group will get the works this morning.

And when that's all over, and the draw is finally posted, the first round of match play will get under way at 1 p. m., 32 pairs teeing up. That means that two rounds will be scheduled for Wednesday, one round Thursday and Friday, and a 36-hole final Saturday.

Mrs. J. A. Page of Greensboro, N. C., a bride of three months, won the qualifying medal with a 78. She is the former Estelle Lawson of Greensboro, N. C.

Cramer High In N. C. Rifle Shoot

The results of the shoot last night—McKeown 186, Hill 186, Waddington 187, Van Horn 173, Miller 138, Badger 159, Black 165, Patterson 183, Clark 175.

Wallick Makes New Mat Record

Youngstown Light-Heavyweight Downs Banaski In 10 Seconds

NELSON WINS FROM GALINTO

Leo Wallick of Youngstown created a probable new record in wrestling last night when he threw Joe Banaski, former light-heavyweight champion in 10 seconds at the Arena gardens. He turned the trick with a flying tackle and a body slam. Most of the fans appreciated the quick fall.

When the bell sounded Banaski rushed at Wallick who sidestepped, then quick as a flash made a flying tackle which is no more than leaping into the air and striking an adversary with his body. Down went Banaski. As soon as Joe fell Wallick pounced on him and pinned his shoulders down.

The former light-heavyweight was exasperated but this did him no good. Charlie Dickerhoff paid scant attention to his look of surprise and the fans who paid the freight were content to shout: "You asked for it and got it" meaning Joe's rush immediately after the bell.

The semi-final found Swede Nelson, a favorite here, victor over Tony Galinto, Big Ten champion, in 10 minutes. The Swede placed his feet on Galinto's stomach, tossed him over his head and while the Chicagoan was trying to arise jumped on the Big Ten champ and pinned him down.

The Stacy Hall-Joe Szabo middleweight match which went 30 minutes to a draw was as entertaining as any match seen here. It was fast and the matmen exhibited all the holds in their repertoire. They were evenly matched and the fans showed their liking for the lighter boys by a round of applause.

Bobby Blake scored a fall and victory over Spike Ashby with a drop kick and body hold after almost 30 minutes of wrestling. Ashby proved one of the best athletes that has ever wrestled in the arena. After being roughed considerably, he was able to come back and win.

Several hundred people attended the bouts.

Bill Amos Pushes Grovers Through Stiff Workouts

Grove City Will Open 1936 Season Saturday With Clarion Teachers

GROVE CITY, Sept. 29.—Veterans will get the call in Saturday's opening game with Clarion Teachers Coach Bill Amos reports as he prepared to polish up the Grove City squad with a tapering-off program of lighter work this week. The letter-men from last year have successfully staved off the threat of several promising new men, at least from the opening game assignment, and the starting line-up here Saturday will find familiar faces in practically every position.

The exception may prove to be Bill O'Mahoney, junior from Mercer, who is making a strong bid for a first-string quarterback job in his first year of football. A two-year basketball letterman, the Mercer boy has developed so rapidly that he is assured a chance to show his stuff in the opening game. Another may be George Barnes, 195-pound guard from Titusville, and a member of the squad for two years, who has the inside track on a varsity post in the face of veteran competition.

Regulars of 1935 who are virtually assured starting berths are Nick Maddalena, tackle; Bob Shoch, Al Mori and Bob Bingham, backs; and Brunton and Lederer, ends; with Bibi a possibility. Dennison, sophomore guard, may pair with Barnes. The center post is still wide open, and the starter will not be known until later in the week. A stiff battle is on for the quarterback job, with Mathis and Morris, veterans, leading the field.

Shenango Meets Zelenople Here

East New Castle Gridders Start Home Season On Friday Afternoon

Shenango high will play its first home game of the season, Friday afternoon, opposing Zelenople high. The East New Castle gridders have started to drill for the scrappy Zelenople team. The Zelenople eleven showed power in defeating Shaler 6-0 last Friday afternoon. To date, Shenango has dropped a pair of games to Evans City and Glassport, 1935 co-champions of Class B of W. P. I. A. L. Coach Noera feels confident that his proteges will register their first triumph against Zelenople.

Father Of Seven Will Be First To Enter Bleachers

Anthony Albano, 38, First In Line For Bleacher Seat At Polo Grounds

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—First man through the bleachers gate at the Polo Grounds to see the opening game of the World Series will be Anthony Albano, 38, father of seven children, who has been unemployed and living on relief funds for three years.

Albano's seventh child, a boy, was born last Friday, but he has refused to give up his place at the head of the long line to see the new arrival. He has been at his post for ten days, equipped with a chair, blanket and other home conveniences.

Union Seeking Football Game

Union High School football team will more than likely be idle again this week, unless Head Coach Dave Boyd can arrange a game for Friday or Saturday with a district team. The Unions have had two open dates in a row. The team hasn't had a game since dropping the opener at Ellwood City 18 to 0. Meantime Coach Boyd holds daily drills at Union High field and has a smooth combination of line and back. There will be several changes in the lineup that started the Ellwood City game, it is indicated.

Tigers Hopeful In Coming Game

New Castle High "Red Hurricane" Tunes Up For Fourth Game Of Year

VALLEY TEAM IS CONFIDENT

Beaver Falls high school "Tigers" football team trains hopefully this week. They would like to stop the streak of the New Castle high "Red Hurricane" here Friday night and at the same time record the first victory for many years over a New Castle team.

In fact, ever since Phil Bridenbaugh has been at New Castle, the valley eleven have been trying to upset the Red and Black appellation, but without any success whatsoever.

Coach Frank "Tiger" Walton is just as ambitious to defeat New Castle as was Coach Heckathorne when he was coach at Beaver Falls high. There seems to be some kind of "jinx" about the Tigers playing New Castle in football. On the basketball court the valleyites have won from New Castle teams, but on the white-chalked football field it is another question.

Walton has sat in the press box here for the first three games of the year. He has absorbed every move made by the locals. He believes that he has a plan laid out to stop the big powerful New Castle backs. The fast charging linemen. It would not be surprising if Walton should open up with a passing attack. This is one department of play that needs polishing up locally.

The defeat by Sharon was disheartening to the Beaver Falls High boys, but the victory of Shenley High last week had the proper effect and the spirits are high again. The Tiger is working like it never worked before for the New Castle game.

This will be the third Class AA conference game of the year for the Bridenbaughs. Two Class AA victories are already in "the bag."

Market Appears To Be Getting Back To Normal After Devaluation Scare

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Stocks tapered off in moderate dealings today, as the market appeared to be getting back to normal after the furore over French devaluation.

In amusements, the first preferred were outstanding. Paramount issues were spurring nearly 3 points and the common a fraction.

The general industrial list, including steels and motors, were lower. Chrysler dropped a point before meeting support, while General Motors and Studebaker reacted fractionally. Bethlehem and U. S. Steel were slightly lower.

Coppers, utilities and aviation lost ground. Oils and auto accessories were mixed.

Mack Trucks benefited fractionally, as did Pullman in rail equipment, each reaching new high ground for the year. Farm implements were mostly improved.

Bonds also were inclined to lower levels, including government obligations. Grains rebounded as much as a cent a bushel. Cotton moved upward close to 50 cents a bale.

National President Of C. Of C. Visits Ellwood On Monday

Lamar Jackson Of Washington, D. C., Tours City For An Hour Yesterday

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—Ellwood City was honored with a short visit of Lamar Jackson of Washington, D. C., president of the National Chamber of Commerce.

Enroute to Pittsburgh he stopped off in this city for an hour to hold a conference and tour with Secretary Denny Schill of the local chamber. Conducted on a tour Mr. Jackson was impressed with the many new store fronts and the improvements being made in the business section of town. He complimented the merchants on the variety of selection of products in their stores for a community of this size. Council was congratulated for their civic pride in encouraging and promoting improvements and cleanliness in their city. He stated that the new municipal building was a noted beauty and improvement in the city upon completion.

The foresight of the merchants in providing free parking grounds for their patrons in the heart of the city at the P. and L. E. grounds, was deemed a wise and unselfish move by the visitors. In leaving Mr. Lamar stated that he would be back in November to make a thorough tour of the city to obtain facts and data for a nation wide radio program in which he will talk on the progress of some cities in the United States.

Large Crowd At Booster Dinner

Two Hundred Twenty Guests Served At Delicious Fish Dinner

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—The North Sewickley township grange hall on the Ellwood-New Brighton road was the scene of a merry gathering last evening when the annual booster dinner and program was held. The affair was open to the public.

Two hundred and twenty members and guests were served a most delicious fish dinner with the fish being "done to a turn" by B. D. Turner of this city.

After the dinner the group was seated in the auditorium where a splendid program and play was presented. Included in the program was a welcome address by the grange master, Robert Thompson, and an interesting address by Walker Shannon, Beaver county pomona master, who spoke on the subject, "What the Grange Means to You and Your Community."

The musical part of the program included instrumental selections and a group of vocal solos by Mrs. Van Winkle.

A three-act comedy presented by the pomona grange was the highlight of the entertainment and kept the large audience in continued laughter.

A full measure of credit for the complete success of the affair is due the committee which was composed of Mrs. Gene Wise, Mrs. Edward Brelock, Mrs. Bert Caven, Mrs. G. N. Hazen and Miss Powell.

The next regular meeting of the grange will take place on Friday evening, October 14.

ANNUAL DINNER

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—On Wednesday members of the Women's Missionary society of the Wurttemberg United Presbyterian church will hold their annual fall dinner to which all the women of the congregation will be welcomed. The affair will begin with a tureen dinner at noon and will be held at the church. A program will be given during the afternoon.

On Thursday a number of the members of this society and of the Mary Braeden circle will attend the annual fall rally of the Beaver Valley Presbyterian to take place at the Rock Springs church at New Galilee.

PRAYER MEETING

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—This evening a Bible study class will be held at the home of Mrs. George Hazen of Ellport. The class is conducted by Rev. Frederick Rader who is pastor of the Glad Tidings Tabernacle of North Sewickley.

A study class will be held at the Wurttemberg United Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening following the mid-week choir practice. The regular weekly cottage prayer service of the Providence Baptist church of North Sewickley will take place on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Guy of Bridge street.

RALLY DAY

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—Rally Day will be observed at the Wurttemberg Methodist Sunday school at the regular services on Sunday morning, October 4, at 10 o'clock.

A program of music and other features is being arranged by a committee composed of Mrs. A. J. Muselman and Mrs. Emmett Graham.

POSTPONE TRIP

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—Past Chiefs, Club of the Pythian Sisters of this city has postponed its pleasure trip to Pittsburgh scheduled for Friday until a later date. They were to view a special radio program but due to the broadcast of the World Series a change has been made.

Ellwood Loses Two Stars For Game

Bill Young And Jim Flanagan Suffer Severe Injuries In Uniontown Game

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—A sad blow has befallen the Ellwood City High grid team. Two of its star players and key men were injured sufficiently to keep them out of action for a week or two.

Bill Young, pile-driving fullback who was second high scorer in Beaver Valley last year, suffered an injury to both his ankles in the Uniontown game last Saturday. Both were swollen yesterday and he was forbidden practice by Coach Mitchell. Flanagan suffered an injury to his trick knee again. Both will be definitely out of the lineup around the Rochester High game here on Saturday.

Flanagan can be replaced to a good degree of satisfaction by Blaine. But filling the shoes of Young is the horse of another collar. The offense was practically built around the star fullback who also called the plays from this position. The lot will undoubtedly fall to Myers, a lad from Koppel who shows great promise.

Martha Cosby Class Has Fine Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 29.—Martha Cosby class of the U. P. church met last night at the home of Miss Mildred Hutchinson on Wiley Hill with 17 present. Miss Grace Harbison's Sunday school class were special guests.

A devotional period was held in charge of Mrs. McQuiston. A business meeting followed which plans were made for a membership contest to be held between the two classes.

A delightful social period and luncheon was then enjoyed. The latter was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. McQuiston.
